

TOPIC 4: RIGHT ATTITUDE TO WORK

1. Meaning of Right Attitude to Work

Right attitude to work means having the correct mindset, behaviour and habits that make a person effective, reliable and productive at work. It includes punctuality, honesty, hard work and respect for rules.

2. Punctuality and Regularity

- Punctuality – arriving at work (or school) on time.
- Regularity – attending work consistently without unnecessary absence.

Benefits: builds trust, improves productivity, sets a good example, avoids disruption of work.

3. Rewards and Punishment

Rewards for good attitude: promotion, salary increase, bonuses, recognition, job security, praise.

Punishment for poor attitude: warning, demotion, loss of benefits, suspension, dismissal.

4. Devotion to Duty

Devotion to duty means giving full attention, effort and loyalty to one's job. A devoted worker completes tasks well, follows instructions, and puts the organisation's interest first within ethical limits.

5. Effects on Productivity and Development

- Good attitude increases productivity and quality of work.
- It leads to organisational growth and national development.
- Poor attitude reduces output, causes losses and slows development.
- Students who develop right attitudes early become better workers and citizens.

6. Summary

Right attitude to work includes punctuality, regularity, honesty and devotion to duty. It is rewarded and improves productivity; poor attitude is punished and harms development.
