

TOPIC 6: COMPOSITION

1. Meaning and Types of Composition

Composition is the art of writing continuous prose on a given topic. Main types:

- Narrative – tells a story (what happened).
- Descriptive – paints a picture with words (what something is like).
- Argumentative – argues for or against a point.
- Expository – explains or informs.

2. Elements of Composition

Introduction – introduces the topic and catches interest. Body – develops ideas in paragraphs with logical sequence. Conclusion – sums up or gives a final thought. Paragraphs should have a clear topic and flow smoothly.

3. Descriptive vs Narrative

Narrative focuses on events and sequence (first, then, finally). Descriptive focuses on appearance, feelings and atmosphere (use of adjectives and sensory details). Example topic: A Market Place (descriptive).

4. Letter Writing – Informal Letter

Features: writer's address and date; greeting (Dear ...); introduction; body (news, purpose); conclusion; closing (Yours sincerely / Your friend) and name. Tone is friendly. Practice: letter to a cousin about your new school.

5. Summary

Composition needs clear structure (introduction, body, conclusion). Know the difference between narrative and descriptive writing and the features of an informal letter.
