- Helps prevent back, neck and shoulder pain
- Improves breathing and circulation
- Gives a confident and healthy appearance
- Supports better performance in sports and daily activities
- Reduces risk of postural defects later in life

3. Factors Affecting Posture

Habits (how we sit or stand), furniture design, footwear, muscle strength, injury, and awareness of body position all influence posture.

4. Summary

Posture is how we hold our body. Good posture protects the spine and joints, improves appearance and supports healthy movement. Developing awareness of posture early is important.
