

TOPIC 6: SELECTION OF DEACONS

1. The Appointment (Acts 6:1–7)

The twelve called the full number of the disciples and said it was not right that they should give up preaching the word to serve tables. They instructed the brothers to pick out seven men of good repute, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom they would appoint to this duty. The whole gathering chose Stephen, Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas and Nicolaus. The apostles prayed and laid their hands on them.

2. Responsibilities of Deacons

In this context, the seven were responsible for the fair distribution of food (practical service) so that the apostles could devote themselves to prayer and the ministry of the word. The role models servant leadership, integrity and Spirit-filled wisdom in practical ministry.

3. Result

The word of God continued to increase; the number of disciples multiplied greatly in Jerusalem, and many priests became obedient to the faith.

4. Lessons

- Different gifts and roles work together in the Church.
- Practical service is spiritual when done in the Spirit.
- Leaders should meet qualifications of character and wisdom.

5. Summary

Seven Spirit-filled men were chosen to serve tables so that the apostles could focus on the word and prayer. The result was growth and unity.
