

TOPIC 6: ELECTION PROCESSES

1. Voter Registration

Eligible citizens must register to vote. INEC conducts continuous or periodic registration, issues voter cards and maintains the voters' register. Accurate registration is the foundation of credible elections.

2. Voting Methods

On election day, registered voters present themselves at polling units, are accredited, and cast ballots in secret. Methods may include manual ballots and technological aids (e.g. card readers, result transmission tools) as provided by law. Secrecy of the ballot protects free choice.

3. Role of INEC

INEC organises elections, regulates parties within the law, educates voters, and declares results. Its independence and efficiency are crucial for public confidence.

4. Citizen Duties

Register; vote peacefully; reject bribery and violence; respect results of credible polls or seek legal redress when necessary.

5. Summary

Election processes include registration, voting and INEC's management. Citizen integrity and institutional credibility make elections meaningful.
